I have been invited to be a speaker on the 24th World Congress of Dermatology (Milan) for 30 min on Clinical-Pathological correlations of inflammatory dermatoses on African skin on 11/06/2019 from 14:30 – 15:00.

In line of my preparation for my presentation, I am prospectively collecting clinical and histopathological data on inflammatory skin conditions which are relatively common in Ethiopia and which are relevant for the meeting with respect to delivering important scientific messages.

My plan is to present 10 cases, each 3 min duration, first providing clinical data followed by histology and finally brief discussion.

Since this is my way of presentation, a proper abstract is difficult to be formulated.

I consider this to be my abstract and submitted it to be part of my scholarship application which I submit on 15/10/2018
